COORDINATING CARE

Healthcare needs may require hospitalization, home health care or other community services or support. Coordinating this care helps prevent confusion when care transitions occur and will prevent needs from "falling through the cracks"

AxessPointe Community Health Centers, Inc. is a federally qualified health center (or FQHC, commonly called a community health center) with five current sites in Northeast Ohio, including three in Akron, one in Kent and one in Barberton. A FQHC is a not-for-profit corporation that delivers primary medical, dental and behavioral health services in medically underserved areas. Originally named Akron Community Health Resources, Inc., the first center was located in Akron, and received funding in 1994 from the Bureau of Primary Health Care to establish the first federally qualified health center in Summit County. AxessPointe now employs nearly 100 staff at its five locations.
